

Asia Regional Strategic Forecast

The New Economics of Political Risk

Tuesday, September 6th, 2016 • Namsan V (2F), Grand Hyatt Seoul
 7.30am - 8.00am Registration & breakfast • 8:00am - 10.00am Meeting & discussion

Political uncertainty will dominate the global economy in the final months of 2016. The US presidential election in November could be won by Donald Trump, an unpredictable billionaire.

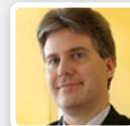

Europe will struggle to deal with the fallout from the UK's vote to leave the European Union. Tensions will flare in Asia over territorial claims in the South China Sea. Around the world, populist politicians will gain strength while opposition to globalisation will rise, threatening decades of progress.

How will Asia respond to these challenges? And what will these global tensions mean for South Korea? The Regional Strategic Forecast will unveil the opportunities and risks around the world in this time of heightened political uncertainty. Join us for discussion of how you can prepare for the opportunities and risks in store.

Note: These meetings are limited to Country Head or CFO of an organisation.

There are a limited number of complimentary tickets for ECCK members available. If you're interested in attending contact Sam Charlton for details: samcharlton@economist.com

Speakers:

Dr. Florian Kohlbacher
 Corporate Network Director,
 North-Asia
The Economist Corporate Network

Joseph Lake
 Director of Global Forecasting
The Economist Intelligence Unit

Charles Hay
 Ambassador
British Embassy Seoul

Dr. Kisuk Cho
 Director & Professor, Public
 Diplomacy Center, Graduate School of International Studies
Ewha Womans University

Alastair Gale
 Bureau Chief, Korea
The Wall Street Journal

Tae-shin Kwon
 President/CEO
Korea Economic Research Institute (KERI)

This meeting will be held in other cities across Asia during the same period. If you're travelling to these places or would like to nominate a colleague of appropriate seniority, please contact us.

Seoul: September 6th
 Beijing: September 8th
 Shanghai: September 9th
 Hong Kong: September 12th
 Tokyo: September 14th
 Kuala Lumpur: September 15th
 Singapore: September 16th