

ECCK INFORMATION SESSION ON EMPLOYEE’S EMOTIONAL & MENTAL HEALTH ISSUE

EVENT OUTLINE

In the past few months, we were adjusting ourselves to the new environment of enforced work from home or split teams, adhering to regulations set by the government from time to time. Although COVID-19 cases in many locations are starting to trend lower, some countries are still seeing a resurgence. How are organisations adjusting and how do you ensure the mental resilience and well-being of your employees in this new normal?

SPEAKER

Dr. William Shin
Senior Coordinating
Doctor
International SOS,

Dr William Shin is a Senior Coordinating Doctor at International SOS, based in Seoul, South Korea. Since joining International SOS in 2005, Dr Shin has been leading the provision of medical assistance services of the Medical Team and the Seoul Assistance Centre for our clients and members. He has managed over a thousand medical evacuations including over a hundred cases where he personally evacuated patients for Korean clients operating overseas and also for foreign companies operating in South Korea.

Dr Shin plays a key role in emergency medical care at International SOS. In 2013, Dr Shin worked as a doctor on board of Korea’s first icebreaker ‘ARAON’, and in 2014, he served as a member for emergency medical preventive measures to ‘Jang Bogo’, the Korean Antarctic Research Station.
