

ECCK Live Webinar on Effective Digital Communication

EVENT OUTLINE

Communication has long been recognized as a vital leadership skill and that hasn't changed with the pandemic. But the switch from face-to-face to virtual meetings is putting new demands on leaders as they try to engage, inspire, and motivate their teams in a time of crisis. We lose the non-verbal clues we rely on, such as subtle facial expressions and body language. That's why a day packed with video conferences is exhausting, leading to what's been termed "Zoom Gloom." Yet more than ever, leaders need to communicate effectively. And employees grappling with the pressures of working remotely need clear direction and a sense of connection with the boss.

In this seminar, we'll explore emerging best practices for leadership communication in the new normal and hear about some of the innovative ways leaders are turning these challenges into opportunities. You'll get tips and tools to help you communicate successfully - and with less stress - in a virtual environment. And we'll look at how teams working remotely can find new ways to stay connected with the boss and the rest of the team.
