Dear Colleagues and Clients,

Expert testimony plays a vital role in helping tribunals comprehend complex facts, technologies, and scientific matters in disputes. The success or failure of arbitration and litigation can often hinge on finding, selecting, and utilizing the right experts, as well as effectively challenging the opinions and testimonies of opposing experts.

This upcoming program will explore key issues that every company, its in-house counsel, external advisors, and outside counsel should consider when dealing with expert testimony in arbitration and litigation. Topics will include how to identify the need for expert evidence, determine the types of experts required, and differentiate between non-testifying and independent testifying experts. Furthermore, strategies for challenging opposing experts through cross-examination, managing time and costs, and handling tribunal-appointed experts will be covered, along with critical due process considerations.

We invite you to join this insightful panel of experienced dispute lawyers and an expert witness as they provide practical strategies for leveraging expert testimony to increase the likelihood of success in arbitration and litigation. The session is designed to offer valuable guidance for arbitration/litigation practitioners, in-house counsel, and arbitrators.

We cordially invite you to attend and appreciate your consideration.
